Distinguished members of the Rotary Club of Accra, on Monday, January 29, 2024, visited the Ghana Standards Authority (GSA) to learn about the operations of the Authority.

The Director-General, Professor Alex Dodoo, and other management members, engaged the Club members in a discussion that centred on the importance of the Authority in the nation's development.

Dr. Sarah Smith, President of the club and leader of the delegation said that they wanted to know about GSA mandates, functions, and services we offer.

The Acting Head of Public Relations at the GSA, Mr. Kofi Debrah, APR, expressed the Authority's excitement at receiving the distinguished members and took them through the services and operations of the Authority.

Prof. Dodoo for his part, encouraged the Rotarians to be very active and send reports or information to the Authority when they observe some wrong doings in products manufactured or imported in the country.

He said the GSA was actively working on projects to standardize the market and protect trade and consumers, highlighting the training of over 300 Training Standards

Inspectors (TSIs) to inspect and enforce standards.

The Rotarians were very impressed with the lessons they were taken through and were full of praise for the GSA especially Mr. Debrah's eloquence and competence in explaining GSA's activities.

The meeting concluded with the Rotarians pledging their support towards GSA's initiatives, fostering a lasting relationship.
